April 1st, 1757. [Numb. 1189.]

The South-Carolina Gazette.

Mr. Timothy,

IT is certain, that ſome Nations receive their moſt beautiful COLOURS and DYES from the Vegetable World, by Means of certain Extracts or different Preparations from Plants. Experiment and Trial, by various Proceſs, have hitherto been, as far as we know, the only Means of procuring Dyes from Vegetables: The ſame Means are moſt likely ſtill to produce the ſame Effects; for, it ſeems to ſurpaſs the Art of the moſt curious Speculatiſt in Botany, to form a probable Conjecture, what particular Colour the Smegma of this or that Plant will yield when treated in any peculiar Manner, until Experiance Steps in to inform him. If therefore we would further explore this almoſt hidden Tract of Knowledge, many Trials, by different Perſons, in various Ways, bid faireſt for Succeſs.

Who could imagine, from the external Appearance of the Indico Plant, that its Extract could be of that lovely Colour which we know from Experiment it produces? And, who can ſay, what Dyes may be extracted from other untried Plants, of a leſs promiſing Aſpect? It is probable, that every Plant yields ſome Colour different from that of another; and amongſt a Variety, ſome Dyes both beautiful and uſeful may be ſelected. If One in Twenty ſhall be found, having theſe Characters, the Labour will be amply rewarded, Honour will redound to the Diſcoverer. Every Trial will yield an agreeable Satisfaction, and One uſeful Diſcovery will be attended with certain Gain.

The Curioſity of the Country Gentlemen in this Province, cannot but be excited on this Occaſion. They need no Arguments to perſuade them to an aſſiduous Inquiry into the Properties of other Plants as well as that of Indico, and how far theſe may be made ſubſervient to the Purpoſes of Agriculture and Trade; They, who in One Inſtance, without much Loſs of Time or laborious Toil, have reached a Knowledge ſo important and beneficial to Britain and its Dominions; eſpecially, when it is conſidered, that South-Carolina, in all Probability, yields as great a Variety of Plants as any Part of equal Extent in the World, and where Soil, Air, and Water, all conſpire to render every new Experiment eaſy and effectual.

In order to promote ſuch uſeful Eſſays upon Plants and Vegetables INTIMATION is hereby given, That, at the Requeſt of ſome curious Members of The BRITISH SOCIETY in London, a few Perſons in this Province have begun an Aſſociation of Members, with Intention, when their Number ſhall be enlarged, to begin the Trial of Plants, communicate to each other the Succeſs of ſuch Trials, produce Specimens of Extracts, and carefully narrate the moſt material and intereſting Parts and Circumſtances of the various Proceſs in ſuch Trials. This Society is propoſed to conſiſt of Town and Country Members: The Buſineſs of the latter will be, to make Extracts, and ſend Specimens and Accounts of Proceſs to the Town Members: Whoſe Care it muſt be, to arrange and claſs the ſeveral Experiments, to keep diſtinct Records of the ſeveral Accounts they ſhall receive from Time to Time, and the Whole, when properly digeſted, to tranſmit to the Britiſh Society, for their Examination and Approbation; and again, to receive and record, and then communicate to the Country Members, the Society's Anſwers and Obſervations.

The few therefore, who have already ſet out on the Footing of the above Plan, offer a General INVITATION to all Gentlemen in the Country who are willing to join them for the Purpoſes aforeſaid, and deſire the Pleaſure of their Correſpondence, on ſuch Subjects, Trials, and Diſcoveries as fall within the Deſign of this Aſſociation *

As a further Inducement to this Undertaking, We are aſſured, that the Britiſh Society will not only give us their candid Opinion and Obſervations on all ſuch Specimens as ſhall be laid before them, but we may be aſſured, that their generous Aſſiſtance and Intereſt will alſo be employed in the Introduction of any uſeful Articles into Trade, by procuring Premiums for their Advancement, or pointing out the proper Markets for the Conſumption, &c. The Funds of this Society are daily encreaſing, to reward every New Diſcovery which tends to advance any uſeful Art, Manufacture, or Branch of Trade, &c. Hence, the Diſcovery, not only of Dyes, but alſo of Timbers that are hard, compact, and will bear a Poliſh,—Planting of uſeful Trees,—Diſcovery of Ores good of their Kind, and ſuch like, will meet with great Encouragement from them.

December 30. Letters in town from France, by the laſt Flanders mail, ſay, that Monſ. Perrier arrived at Breſt the 14th inſt. with five ſhips of the line and two frigates, from St Domingo.

January 4 By a perſon lately arrived from Berlin we hear, that the king of Pruſſia has obliged the nobility to part with all their ſervants, except old men, and boys out of the charity-ſchools, he obliged all the reſt to enter into his army; and that his majeſty has turned all the play houſes in Dreſden into academie for the ſtudy of the military art.

January 8 The two regiments raiſing in the Highlands, are to conſiſt of 1000 men each, to be commanded by Col. Fraſer, ſon of the late lord Lovat, and Major Montgomerie, brother to the earl of Eglinton. No Lowlanders are to be received into theſe regiments, but are to be raiſed from the following clans, viz the Campbell's, Mackenzie's, Fraſer's, Macdonald's, and Grant's.

The current report at Dreſden is, that the king of Pruſſia will re enter Bohemia with his army as ſoon as the weather permits: In the mean time, the Pruſſian troops have already ſeiz'd ſeveral paſſes.

The workmen in the yards of Portſmouth and Chatham, work all ſunday, and are to do ſo, 'till the ſhips are all ready for the ſea.

January 15. On thurſday 3 waggons, laden with arms and ammunition, ſet out for Portſmouth, in order to be embarked for North-America.

Admiral Coates will certainly ſail by the 10th of February; and Jamaica, we hear, will be the general rendezvous.

January 20. We hear the parliament has granted 30 000 l. for the Foundling hoſpital, to enable the governors to continue the receiving all children that are offered.

The late attempt on the life of the French king, has occaſioned a recollection of the fate of his four predeceſſors who had a ſhocking exit: King Henry IIId, being aſſaſſinated at the head of his army by a friar, king Henry the IVth was ſtabbed in his coach in Paris, king Lewis the XIIIth killed in a tournament, and king Lewis the XIVth was eat up alive by lice.

We can with pleaſure aſſure the public, that the lords of the admiralty, upon receiving an account of the very gallant behaviour of Mr. Harriſon, commander of the Otter ſloop, immediately appointed him captain of the Greyhound man of war.

On monday a cartel ſhip arrived at Falmouth, with Engliſh priſoners from Breſt.

On Friday laſt came in, His Majeſty's Snow Jamaica, commanded by Capt. Thompſon, from off her Cruize.

We hear, that ſome Diſpatches have been found on board the French Brigt. from Miſſiſippi, ſent into this Port laſt Week by His Majeſty's Snow Jamaica; the Contents of which do not tend to give us the leaſt Reaſon to believe, that we are in a State of perfect Security Amongſt the Priſoners, is a French Officer, whoſe Station had been (for ſome Years) at the Alabama Fort, and who was the Bearer of the abovementioned Diſpatches.

There is a Letter of good Authority in Town from London, dated January 22d, which aſſures, that two Men of War (a Ship and a Snow) were appointed to convoy the Prince of Wales, Capt. Curling, the Friendſhip, Capt. Ball, and the Charming Martha, Capt. Leſlie, for this Port, to ſail the 10th of February; and that Orders would come out in theſe Men of War, for His Majeſty's Ship Winchelſea, upon their Arrival, to return for England, as Convoy to ſuch Veſſels as may be then ready to depart from hence.

Laſt Monday Night we had a violent Gale of Wind here, which drove moſt of the Veſſels from their Moorings at the Wharves, and put the Good-Intent, Capt. Hill, aſhore upon Shute's Folly, and the Bean, Capt. Sherman, upon a Bank in the Bite of Rebellion Road, who have ſince been got off without [illegible]

SUPPLEMENT To

The SOUTH-CAROLINA Gazette.

[Numb. 1185] APRIL 1st, 1757.

BOSTON, January 10

ON wednesday last the right h a the earl of Loudoun, attended by a number of officers and other gentlemen, arrived here from New York, escorted by the governor's troop o guards Upon his ordship's arriva' at the fort prepa ed for his reception, he cannonade Castle William, and those of the ba teries of this town and Charlestown were discharged.

New York, Febr 21. The privateer brigt K g George of this port, capt Arnold, ha been spoke with by a Providence privatee, and had then taken and sent for Jamaica, a sloop with 200 soldiers on board, from hispaniola for Mississippi.

Yesterday evening, his excellency John earl of Loudoun, arrived here from Boston

The following Extract from the brave Captain Rogers's Journal, we imagine must be agreeable to Readers.

ON the 13th of January 1757, marched from fort Edward, with lieut. Stark of my company, ensign Page of capt. Richard Rogers's company; and 50 men of both companies:—I the evening arrived at fort William Henry; remained there 'till the 17th, when being joined by capt Spikeman, lieut. Kennedy, ensign Brewer, and 14 of capt Spikeman's company, together with ensign Rogers and 14 of capt. Hobb's company, and Mr Baker a volunteer in his majesty's 44th regiment, I set out, and at night encamped at the first Narrows on the East side of the lake. Some of the detachments having hurt themselves on the ice, and not being able to proceed, the party was reduced to 74 men, officers included; with which we continued our scout to lake Champlain — As soon as we came to the lake, discovered a fleet going from Ticonderoga to Crown Point, on which I dispatched lieut Stark with a party of 20 men towards Crown Point, to head the fleet; at the same time I set out with another party towards Ticonderoga, leaving capt. Spikeman with a party in the center: Lieut. Stark's orders were, to march as far down as he could 'till the fleet came against the center party, then push on to the ice to head them; which I with my party, designed to do the same on the lake, to prevent the fleets returning to Ticonderoga—I soon after discovered about 10 fleets more coming down the lake, and immediately sent 2 men to tell lieut. Stark not to discover himself, and let the first fleet pass; but before the men could overtake him, he had got on the lake, and was seen by the people in the fleets, who turned and fled for Ticonderoga: We pursued them, took 3 fleets, 7 prisoners, 6 horses, the others made their escape to Ticonderoga: We immediately examined the prisoners separately; after which I gave orders (as the day was wet) to return with all expedition to our fleet, at our last encampment, in order to dry our guns, which we did effectually, and then marched, keeping a good rear guard?—Myself and lieut. Kennedy took the front; capt. Spikeman the center; and lieut. Stark brought up the rear: Ensigns Page and Rogers were between the front and center; and ensign Brewer between the center and rear: The rear guard being under the command of serjeant Walker—In this manner we proceeded, and in crossing a valley between 2 very steep hills, which was about 15 rods wide, when the front to the number of 10 or 12 had raised the summit on the western side, a volley of 200 shot, or thereabouts, was fired upon us, from the enemy, who had formed themselves in a half-moon, to intercept and surround us, which killed lieut. Kennedy, and Mr. Gardiner a volunteer; wounded several of our party, and myself slightly in the head; this fire we returned; and then I ordered the whole to retreat to the opposite side, where lieut Stark and ensign Brewer, with about 40 men had made a stand —The enemy pursued us to close thro' the valley that they took some prisoners, and killed capt. Spikeman and several of our men; but were beaten back again from behind fire of lieut. Stark's party, that covered and secured our retreat. They then sent out a flanking party on our right, which lieut Stark discovered, and called out to acquaint me of; upon which I ordered a party, under serjeant Phillips, to head and prevent them, which he accordingly did, by having the first fire at, and killing several of them; the rest retreating to their main body. The enemy soon after made an attempt to push up to us; but having the advantage of the ground and good shelter from trees, we obliged them a second time to retreat, as they could not stand our continual fire upon them. They then sent out another party to flank us, which I perceived, and sent ensign Rogers with 12 men, who repulsed and forced them back to their own ground; and afterwards ordered the said party into the rear, to prevent any further designs of this kind from the enemy: Then formed ourselves for the battle; taking my station on the right, ensign Brewer on the left, and lieut. Stark and Mr. Baker in the center; the latter of which I desired to go into the rear to assist ensign Rogers; but did not incline to leave his post, and soon after was killed —We continued a constant fire on both sides, 'till sun set; the French often calling to us to accept quarters, promising that we should be used with humanity, and treated kindly; and at the same time called me by my name, and threatned us that if we did not embrace their offer, as soon as the party joined them from the fort, which they expected every moment, they would cut us to pieces; but we absolutely refused to receive their proffered mercy; and I told them that we had men sufficient to repel any force that could come against us; and that we should have it in our power to cut them to pieces and scalp them —About sunsetting I received a slanting wound in my hand, tho' my wrist, which disabled me from loading my gun, on which I sent a man to the rest of my officers, desiring them not to be discouraged, but to maintain their ground; which they did very gallantly 'till daylight ceased, when both sides left off firing; upon which I consulted all my officers, who unanimously were of opinion, that it was most prudent to carry off the wounded of our party, and take the advantage of the night to return homeward, lest the enemy should send out a fresh party against us in the morning; And as our ammunition was almost expended, we were obliged to pursue this resolution, and so travelled all night Two days after, in the evening, got into fort William Henry, with 45 effective, and 9 wounded men —We imagined the enemy consisted of 250 French and Indians, of which number we suppose 40 were killed, besides the prisoners we had taken; and that we wounded many of them
